

STI's NEXTGEN PERMATANK®:

Built The Watco Way

The NextGen Permatank® is a double-wall jacketed underground storage tank with an inner steel tank and a corrosion-resistant external coating. This enhancement supports long-term structural performance and system reliability. Backed by STICO Mutual's 30-year limited warranty.

Permatank Advantages:

- Monitoring: Equipped with a uniform interstitial space for long-term performance, meeting EPA requirements.
- Fuel Compatibility: Steel construction ensures compatibility with all hydrocarbons and can be lined for DEF and JetA/AV Gas applications
- Flat Bulkheads & Design efficiency: Reduces length to maximize storage without sacrificing real estate, designed shorter than fiberglass tanks of the same capacity, reducing installation costs and increasing layout flexibility
- Braced Double Bulkheads: Provide dual sealed protection between contained liquids, reinforced with vertical bracing for superior structural integrity
- Features a durable non-slip grip: OSHA-level grip strength for superior safety
- 14-gauge steel: Replaced previous standoff material creating a tight interstitial space
- Versatility: Available in double wall construction with capacities up to 40,000 gallons
- Backfill Options: Permatank's ease of installation allows for cost saving backfill material such as pea gravel, earthen dirt, and clean-washed crushed stone
- Environmental responsibility: Steel construction allows for recycling, supporting environmental sustainability
- Anchoring: While anchoring is not required for the underground Permatank, optional Watco-manufactured deadman and anchoring packages are available to maximize ease and installer convenience.
